

Sowerby Bridge people and events

The Friends of Sowerby Bridge Railway Station are busy working on our latest project aimed at creating interest and pride in the town, and also improving the station environment for the benefit of local rail users and visitors to the town. The project involves the provision of Information Boards; 30 have already been produced and 28 of these are now installed on the station platforms. The other 2 boards are to be positioned in the Bronte Garden. All but one of the boards are A1 size (84cm x 60cm) and give details of either “person(s) of note” with a connection to Sowerby Bridge (and surrounding villages) or an interesting event in the town’s past. The odd one out is a larger board, positioned centrally on Platform 2, which lists the names of the railwaymen employed locally by the former Lancashire & Yorkshire Railway Company who sacrificed their lives in the Great War 1914 – 1918. This first batch of boards has been funded by the Community Development Foundation. Additional funding has also been awarded by ACoRP which will enable another 6 boards to be added in the forthcoming weeks.

The boards have been researched by our members, and we hope that they prove interesting and informative to all who read them. We invite feedback and comment, and also suggestions regarding possible further topics for inclusion in the future. See overleaf for a full list of the people and events currently featured. Sowerby Bridge Library is hosting a promotional display (4 July-24 July) to coincide with the Information Boards appearing on the station.

Three Generations Working at Sowerby Bridge Railway Station

Karen Doyle, owner of Blackberry Bakery in Sowerby Bridge, is proud to have three Generations of her family having worked at Sowerby Bridge Railway Station.

In 1928 Harold Gregory, Karen’s grandfather, came to live in Calderdale from Doncaster having worked for the railway there for 16 years. He started work at Luddendenfoot Station as a porter and from there he worked at various stations in Calderdale, finishing his career at Sowerby Bridge and retiring in 1958 after 46 years’ service.

Karen’s late father, Frank Gregory, started working for the railway after returning from the war, his first post in 1947 was at Greetland Station. He also worked at various stations in Calderdale as a shunter in the goods yards, in the signal box at Sowerby Bridge and at the coal drops in Sowerby Bridge and Halifax. Frank retired with over 30 years’ service with the railway.

Robert Doyle of RS Groundworks, Karen’s son, is the third generation to work at the Sowerby Bridge Station when he constructed the pathways and raised beds in the Bronte Garden in 2013. Robert was pleased to have been given the opportunity to work where his grandfather and great grandfather had worked before him.

Harold and Frank had a keen interest in the original Sowerby Bridge station garden that was sited near to the new Bronte Garden. The photograph above is of Harold (extreme right) with colleagues in the original station garden.

Can anyone put names to the other four railwaymen in the photograph?
